

It is important at this stage of year 11 that students are exposed to exam style questions and are given the appropriate mental models to enable them to answer them. We know that students need to be familiar with the style in which exam questions are written in order to reduce cognitive overload and that they need to know how marks are awarded by exam boards in order to maximise their grades.

We recommend that you print this and keep it visible so that you are aware of which subjects are due each day in order to support your child. Students should expect to complete subject specific homework which has been set by their teachers. Subject specific homework may include extended writing activities or questions from past exam papers.

Success criteria for Year 11 homework

- Locate the correct section of English, Maths or Science to be submitted on a given date as shown in the table above
 - Complete one full side of work to show that you have engaged with the correct subject and section. The work could be revision notes or answers to questions
 - Full name and Advisory group need to be written at the top of the page
 - We would expect the revision notes to show an efficient use of the A4 paper, using standard font size that would be acceptable in an exam
